Mississippi Comments.

Both cotton and corn are said to be growing rapidly since the recent rain.

In another month it is expected that the prairie schooners will begin rolling in laden to the guards with the fleecy staple, and an additional impetus be given to business.

Print shops are not the only places where "forms" are "put to press." A moonlight night and vine-clad veranda offer excellent environment for pastime of this character.—Columbus Commercial.

The New York World says: "No better tribute could be paid to the south than that every party of Northerners who visit it come back with glowing reports of its prosperity." And the half has never been realized.

It is a good thing for law, order, decency and morality in the State of Mississippi when belonging to the "first families" does not save the high-born felons from the same fate which overtakes those of low bred parentage.

Congressman A. F. Fox, of West Point, Mississippi and Mrs. Annette S. Brandon, of Thomasville, Ga., were married last Thursday, the wedding being solemnized by Dr. Howard Duffield at the first Presbyterian church in New York City.

It is said that the defeat of Rev. Isaiah B. Scott, colored, for naval officer at New Orleans is due to Senator A. J. McLaure, who attentively opposed his appointment. He was the choice of Booker T. Washington, but whether or not Referee Wilson favored him is unknown.

Mississippi is the only state in the Union in which there are more old maids than old bachelors. The former number 58,799, while there are 53,550 of the latter. The publication of this fact by the census bureau will have a depressing effect on this state as a place for young ladies to visit.—Grenada Sentinel.

President Roosevelt is to join Governor Longino in a bear hunt on the governor's plantation in the delta early in October. The famous observation, made by the governor of North Carolina to the chief executive of a neighboring state, will doubtless be repeated many times on this excursion.—Columbus Commercial.

The ladies of Jackson have raised a fund of $1,000 to fight the blind tigers and gambling hells in that city. In our opinion the fight will be useless. A majority of the citizens of Jackson are in favor of clubs and cards, and this element will unite to cover up the wickedness of the capital city.—Lexington Advertiser.

A dispatch from Meridian says that northern parties are in that vicinity for the purpose of encouraging the planting of broom corn, and purpose to erect a factory provided farmers can be induced to plant a sufficient acreage. We have a factory in Lexington and those who have tried the experiment pronounce the crop much more profitable than cotton.

Those newspapers that are engaged in shooting it to Jackson about her alleged blind tigers and lawlessness should look about them and see that their own skirts are clean. The fellow that lives in a shanty made of glass cannot afford to throw stones. The prohibition executive committee, composed of ten or twelve of the most prominent citizens, declare that Jackson is the most moral town in the state—perhaps in the South.—Clarion Ledger. Then why are they always howling so lustily.

Citizens of Barnett, a small station on the New Orleans and Northeastern Railroad about twenty miles north of Laurel are excited over the discovery of oil. Workmen were engaged in boring an artesian well for the Smith Lumber Company. After the drill had passed through a vein of stone, coal and a bed of shells an oil vein was struck at a depth of 380 feet. The oil was brought up in sufficient quantities to cover the top in a pail of water, and when a lighted match was applied it ignited readily and burned, making a clear blue light. The lumber company has ordered deep well boring machinery. In the meantime the work is being continued with the machinery at hand.

The issue of the Chicago Daily Tribune of Wednesday, July 23rd, is one of the most elaborate as well as the most artistic editions of a newspaper ever made in the United States, and perhaps in the world. The issue was especially devoted to a description of the new Tribune buildings, its new colored presses, and to a detailed description of the paper's force and equipment, and it carries the startling intelligence that a little city is composed of the Tribune family. In other words there are more people required to produce this great newspaper than are found to reside in the average country town of three thousand souls, and all these people, it must be remembered are high salaried assistants. The various departments which are necessary to produce such a great paper are all complete as well as in the class of individuals who have their special duties to perform each day, and the Tribune presents about the most startling array of journalistic talent that has ever been brought together. In the rating of the newspapers of the country, the Tribune stands second in the list of the thirteen greatest newspapers which means that it is graded both for the quality and the quantity of its readers. It is indeed a wonderful newspaper, so wonderful that the average reader can scarcely imagine its greatness.

It is not claimed that all the bloodshed, destruction of property and chaos resulting from the war in South Africa came from a trivial incident resulting from a meeting between President Kruger and the late Cecil Rhodes. The circumstances are giving about this way: Mr. Rhodes had arrived in Pretoria to carry on some negotiations with President Kruger on the street. Before Mr. Rhodes could state fully the object of his visit according to mayor Kellner, Mr. Kruger, who had a bible under his arm, growled: "I must go to church," and broke off the interview abruptly, leaving Rhodes standing in the street. That was the last time Mr. Rhodes saw President Kruger and he left Pretoria convinced that the old man was impracticable.

WOMAN'S RELIEF

A really healthy woman has little pain or discomfort at the menstrual period. No woman needs to have any. Wine of Cardui will quickly relieve those smarting menstrual pains and the dragging head, back and side aches caused by falling of the womb and irregular menses.

Germerswood, La., Oct. 14, 1902.
I have been very sick for some time. I was taken with a severe pain in my side and could not get any relief until I tried a bottle of Wine of Cardui. Before I had taken all of it I was relieved. I feel it my duty to say that you have a wonderful medicine.

A few years ago every few days we would receive intelligence of some American being robbed in Mexico, and after taking his worldly goods, the robbers would probably cause the arrest of the victim and his incarceration of some rude prison, where he could neither squeal or instigate an investigation. The tables seem to be turning, for the other day three Americans held up a train on the Mexican Central railroad, securing $50,000 from the express car.
